all points comply with the statute, so as to leave no loophole in those respects. Care ought also be taken that the Commissioners order no suits to be commenced in which the description of the property is faulty, or the distance from the county seat is so great that the expenses would amount to more than the property assessed could be sold for. In these stringent times all these present. these stringent times all these precau-tions are necessary to prevent a mill-stone of debt being attached to the countions are necessary to prevent a millstone of debt being attached to the county, from which it will take many years to free itself. We are not offering these suggestions in a fault-finding spirit, but merely as hints which we would respectfully urge would be well to consider.
The revenue laws, as they stand at present, are certainly not made for the interest of the tax-payers, but rather in that of the officials, and well deserve the serious attention of the next Legislature.
As the statutes now read, tax suits are unnecessarily burdensome and expensive. The law ought to be so altered that delinquents should be sued in the township where the property is situated, without the property delinquent lay in several townships, and then it should be sued in the township nearest the county to buy in property at tax sales should be repealed in toto. Its working is mischierous in the last degree, and only results in causing a huge bill of expenses to be run up against the county without any benefit to connterbalance it. In many other respects the revenue laws require revision and alteration, also many other respects the revenue laws require revision and alteration, also simplifying. The laws concerning county government are also very defective. Some liabilities are preferred and some are not. This is all wrong. All creditors of the county should stand on the same basis—the law should not prefer Tom Jones from Tom Tomkins. The only claim that has any reason to entitle it to preference, is, perhaps, the Judge's salary, which, in the interests of the impartial administration of justice, it might be well to continue and so remove all temptation. We cannot but emove all temptation. We cannot but hope that the members of the Legisla-ture that are sent from this county will turn their attention to these matters, and by so doing they will render a real and lasting service to their constituents and do themselves credit. different portions of the town, are inspected daily and used for sprinkling the in vocal and instrumental music. streets. The officers of the fire department Anderson Sam T Aplesworth G W Arbuckle T B Baker A Cartwright Bastan strong and willing hands will be ready to do their utmost to save the property of their fellow citizens from destruction. We have no doubt but that the property of their fellow citizens from destruction. We have no doubt but that the fire boys will do their part, and in turn, our citizens will do theirs. In saying this, we mean that they should take every reasonable precaution against a fire starting, by looking closely after their stove pipes, and seeing that no inflamable refuse or litter is allowed to accumulate on their premises. Vesterdamable refuse or litter is allowed to accumulate on their premises. Yesterday, in the course of our perambulations, we visited the rear of several of the main streets, and noticed sundry piles of rubbish, such as cedar bark, waste paper, old borse, etc., which it would be well to remove. Such accumulations, when allowed to remain in the portion of the flown that is thickly built over, form veritable tinder boxes, that only need a spark from a chimney to kindle, and thereby endanger the town. We know this is an old song, and we have repeated it ad nauseam, but really, there is daily shown such carelessness and indifference, that the absence of large and destructive fires is more to be wondered at than their occurrence.

We therefore again impress SAN FRANCISCO STOCK REPORT. upon our fellow citizens the absolute ne-are not aware that there is sufficient or any supply of vaccine in the town. If not, measures should at once be taken to provide it in sufficient quantities to vac-cinate all who may apply. We would suggest that the County Physician should be provided with vaccine at the expense of the county, in order to vaccinate those who may not have means to pay a priof the county, in order to vaccinate those who may not have means to pay a private physician. Steps should also be taken, and that immediately, to cleanse and disinfect all places in town where decaying vegetable or animal matter has been allowed to or must necessarily accumulate. These and such other precautionary measures as may be thought advisable should not be delayed, but taken at once. There is no telling at what moment this infectious and dangerous disease may appear, and then all will be hurry-acurry and confusion. We have no wish to unecessarily alarm our fellow-citizens, but in such matters, to be forewarned is to be foreamed, and an ounce of prevention is worth several tons of cure.

Masquenape.-On the 17th instant a grand fancy dress and masquerade ball will be given at Brown's Hall. The list of managers is published this morning, and includes many of our prominent and well known citizens. The most complete arrangements will be made to ensure the comfort and enjoyment of all who attend. From the preparations that we hear a personal to the property of the preparations that we hear a personal to the persona comfort and enjoyment of all who attend.

From the preparations that we hear are being made, there will be a great number present arrayed in elegant and fanciful costumes, and the hall will present a varied and brilliant appearance.

County Expenses.

In consequence of the decrease of the product of the mines of this region, the county revenue from the tax on the products of the mines has been materially decreased. As this has formed a very important portion of the revenues of this county, the marked diminution should prompt the exercise of the most rigid and unsparing economy in all departments of the county government. In past time much expense has been caused the county by the loose manner in which assessments were made and also in the improvident institution of tax suits. This should serve as a guide and caution for the future. The description of the company, the company and its officers are false. He proceeded to criticise the figures. The description of the quasi real estate situate within the county should be so accurately and closely defined, that if the property should be sold for taxes, that the Sheriff's deed would convey the property without question. The proceedings anterior to suit, as well as after, should in all points comply with the statute, so as to leave no loophole in those respects.
